

The University of Texas at Austin Athletic Training Education Program & The Longhorn Athletic Training Student Association High School Sunday

Sunday, April 23, 2017

What: High School Sunday events include an educational workshop conducted by members of the Longhorn Athletic Training Student Association (LATSA), a presentation on UT's ATP, and a tour of some of UT's Athletics' facilities. This is an excellent opportunity for high school students to learn about UT's Athletic Training Program, meet some of our students, staff, and faculty, and take a self-guided tour around campus. Please encourage your students to attend, especially if they are interested in UT's Athletic Training Program. While the day's activities are geared towards the high school student, parents and staff athletic trainers are also welcome.

A professional CEU workshop will also be offered to credentialed athletic trainers. Please see the separate flyer for additional information on the CEU workshop.

When: Sunday, April 23rd

Schedule:

The tentative schedule for the workshop is as follows:

- 9:00am - Registration*
- 9:30am - Welcoming remarks and educational presentations 11:30am -
Lunch & presentation on the UT ATP
- 12:30pm - Educational presentations
- 2:30pm - Viper Sports Medicine/USAF Presentation
- 3:00pm - Facility Tour
- 4:00pm - Campus Tour on your own

Where: The workshop will be held in the Moncrief-Neuhaus Athletic Center (MNC) on The University of Texas' campus. MNC is the building immediately south of the football stadium.

There is parking available in the MAG. If the gates are open, parking is free. If the gates are down, it will cost you $15-$20 to park for the day. The cost of parking is not included in the workshop. If you choose to park elsewhere, pay attention to posted signs. We are not responsible for any parking tickets. Please call Brian Farr at 512.471.9885 if you plan to bring a group of students in a bus. The bus driver will either need to stay with the bus or will need to park off campus. There is no dedicated bus parking on campus. Busses will not fit in the MAG.
